Choose Your Legacy

We all live with a ticking clock. Joshua, the leader of Israel, understood this better than most. As he approached the end of his life, he didn't just fade away; he challenged God's people with this question: What will you do with the time you have left?

As we look to a new year, we look to Joshua 24 and find three choices to make when we consider our legacy:

First, recognize the Source of your success.

Joshua begins by tracing history—from Abraham to the Exodus. He highlights a striking pattern of God's activity. God was the one who took, led, gave, and delivered. It is easy to credit our hard work for our blessings, but James 1:17 reminds us that "Every good and perfect gift is from above." Whether it's your family, your career, or your community, these are blessings we didn't "earn". When we realize how much God has done for us, gratitude becomes our natural response.

Second, draw your line in the sand.

Joshua didn't offer vague suggestions; he gave a challenge. He declared: "But as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." Commitment isn't a feeling; it's a series of actions. Joshua offers four specific shifts:

- Fear: Living with a healthy respect and awe for God.
- Serve: We always find time for what we love. What does your schedule say you love?
- Bury: We must put away idols. Refuse to dig up the habits that once held you captive.
- Choose: You do not drift into a holy life. You must choose it daily.

Third, your daily choices are your legacy.

The chapter ends with a powerful postscript. At 110 years old, Joshua goes home. The Bible gives him this label: the servant of the Lord. Joshua and those who serve alongside him, continued to serve God. That is a lasting impact. And what about you and your choice? You contribute to your legacy every single day. You don't get to choose if you leave one, but you do get to choose what kind it will be. Will your legacy be marked by the One you served?

BSU Trivia Event

There will be a BSU trivia event on April 18 from 2—4:30 PM at the BSU on Truman campus. The trivia could be from any subject. If you are interested in putting a table together, please see Lana Brown for details by mid-January. The tables can have up to eight people (youth and/or adults). We can have multiple tables.

Lottie Moon Christmas Offering

The Lottie Moon Christmas Offering supports Southern Baptist missionaries around the world. This offering has been instrumental in funding the work of over 3,500 missionaries, enabling them to share the gospel and provide assistance to those in need. Our goal at HSBC was $2,250. We gave $2,415. Thanks to everyone who contributed.

Wednesday Night Meals

The Wednesday night meals from January—May will be coordinated by Ginger Reed. Ginger will be looking for families, small groups, etc., to plan, fix, and serve these meals. If you are willing to take a week please contact Ginger at (660) 988-8990. If you volunteer she won't have to ask you. That would make her job a lot easier.

forgiveness and God's grace and mercy so many times.

What a season of incredible movement. God is not done yet and is still creating and moving with such love and intention. It's exciting and humbling that we get to be a part of what he's doing in spite of the mess we are here at the BSU... and we will always be a mess as long as I am a part of it because I know how much I need

There's a lot of physical and intellectual movement happening right now, but also a lot of beautiful spiritual movement and changes. To give a close-up on two things happening would be to share about one of our international students who gave his life to Jesus last year. This guy is about to graduate and has been looking at using his school and skills to pursue something in the information technology world which he is incredibly good at. Through the semester, we've been able to visit with and disciple him. We keep working together, trying to reach his friends who come from a Muslim background. They do not believe yet, but have been very open to conversations about Jesus. We were talking just yesterday and he shared with me that about a week ago, he felt like he had a moment or revelation where he really feels like God is not calling him into information technologies, but is actually moving him to want to go study theology and he has now visited and is applying at two separate seminaries. It was a beautiful conversation, getting to hear how he loves so much who Jesus is and wants to know so much more and to try and understand so much more of the history of Jesus. So it's been an incredible semester from now a three year journey, watching this young man with no Jesus, who now not only comes to know Jesus, but has been growing as a disciple himself and as a new missionary and is now sharing that this is the most central thing in his life. Wow, it is incredible, incredible, incredible how we get to be a small part of this guy's life with so many other people who God used in his life here to help change his trajectory and now we get to keep discipling and watching God use this one young man to keep trying to reach more and more people one soul at a time.

The other movement that's been happening has been the Sunday night meals which we've been sharing about through this Fall semester because they've been really a leap of faith for us to pray and ask God and to ask others to help us try to do for so many students. And it has been so humbling to see it grow from 60 students to over 130 now, and that has taken so many churches, now at least seven, coming alongside to help us create the moments and the space for so many students to be served and loved and hope maybe it leads to more and every way.

We had the idea towards the end of the semester to put a little QR code survey out on the tables to see if some would fill it out. We had a few responses and all of them were really positive and you could definitely hear in the responses the thoughts of several who are not connected to faith and just sharing how thankful they were. So we want to share with you the question and then the response from one of the anonymous people and hope it encourages your heart and just the work you are so lovingly being a part of here to allow God to use you to help us keep being a voice of hope in the darkness here.

We hope it encourages you, and we wish you all a Merry Christmas and thank you so much for all you do for so many here you may never meet. The question on the survey was: "Would you like to know more about who Jesus is in person or by text later on?" And then here was one of the responses we wanted to share with you: "I am not religious nor do I plan to be. But I very much used to be, and as someone who used to be scared of the church, I can't thank you enough for turning it into a place of hope again. Please, if nothing else, know that you have changed the way one tired atheist saw the church. Thank you for being the people Christ encouraged us to be."

Love has come—Merry Christmas—BSU

The pictures above are from the Children's Christmas program on December 21. The pictures below are from Our Christmas which was held on December 14. Both were good celebrations of the true meaning of Christmas. Thanks to Ashley Hartman, Becky Ingle, Jessica Martin, Lily Martin, and Tanya Tatro for working with the children. Thanks to Chad Tatro for organizing and bringing back Our Christmas.
